Key Concepts

Jesus' words in Matthew 23 were aimed toward the restoration of His people so that His people could be compassionate neighbors. Jesus wanted His people to understand His law in a new way. He wanted Israel to focus on God, and on their neighbor, as well. Israel should "love the Lord your God with all your heart, with all your soul, and with all your mind" and "to love your neighbor as yourself." Fairness and justice, love and care, cannot be practiced by individuals only but be practiced and implemented by the church, the body of Christ.

Refuge in the Lord

When we come to the God of the Bible

Psalms 101:1-4 I will sing of steadfast love and justice; to you, O Lord, I will make music. I will ponder the way that is blameless. Oh, when will you come to me?
I will walk with integrity of heart within my house; I will not set before my eyes anything that is worthless.

To walk with God is to grow in personal integrity. More than this, it is to love integrity. The more one grows in Christ and journeys through this world in communion with him, the deeper one's desire to be an integrated human being will be—to bring into alignment our passions, words, thoughts, finances, and so on. When one keeps one's eyes focused on God—his character, his promises, his mighty rule, his heart of grace for sinners, all of life comes into accord. Things fall into place.
